Dear Friends of the Vallarta Botanical Garden,

Your votes have paid off beyond our wildest expectations! This past month, we’ve called upon you as supporters to vote for the Vallarta Botanical Garden in a contest conducted by USA Today for their 2018 Top Ten List of the Best Botanical Gardens in North America. The results are in and we’re now ranked number 4 on this prestigious list!

It is truly an honor and a privilege to achieve this distinction which we fully understand was only possible through the support of our community. The majority of nominees for this contest are massive organizations, several of which are over 100 years old and have over a million visitors per year. In comparison, the Vallarta Botanical Gardens is young and small, but has a large and rapidly growing impact that is not going unnoticed.

Your votes in this contest demonstrate to people near and far that Puerto Vallarta is a world-class botanical and horticultural destination deserving of their visits. And the impact of this contest on Garden visitation is already apparent. While we’re entering a time of year that is traditionally slower than the busy winter season, we are still blessed with a steady stream of delighted guests with whom we may share the fruits of our labors. We hope to count you among those who visit us this spring, so please come out and spend a day in the Garden soon!

In thanks and sincere appreciation,
Bob Price, Founder and Curator, VBG

A Visit to Las Pozas

Mexico is a country full of many world-class garden destinations. Bob Price and Jesús Reyes of the Vallarta Botanical Garden had a recent opportunity to visit Las Pozas in Xilitla, San Luís Potosí, the surrealist sculpture garden built by Edward James and Plutarco Gastelum beginning in the 1940s. What was originally a private estate has today become one of Mexico's most-visited garden destinations filled with enormous imaginative concrete sculptures in the most improbable jungle setting.

Garden travel provides incredible opportunities for inspiration. We encourage you to plan your next garden vacation today!
Photo Exhibit

Come to the Vallarta Botanical Garden this month to see “Sacred Plants of Mexico”, a series of images on display by Angélica López Toribio related to Mexican plants and culture.
Mujer Haciendo Tortillas

Las tortillas de maíz son especialmente importantes en la cocina mexicana, la importancia de la tortilla en México y Mesoamérica es tal, que se ha utilizado en la dieta diaria desde tiempos remotos. Ninguna comida mexicana está completa sin la tortilla.

Woman Making Corn Tortillas

Corn tortillas are especially important in Mexican cuisine, the importance of the tortilla in Mexico and Mesoamerica is such that it has been used in the daily diet since prehistoric times. No Mexican meal is complete without the tortilla.

Fruto de Cacao

Las vainas de semillas de la fruta fresca de cacao se recolectan, fermentan, luego se secan al sol y se tuestan para crear cacao, es el principal ingrediente en todo el chocolate. En la antigüedad, las semillas de cacao se usaban como monedas. La pulpa blanca solo está disponible cuando las vainas de cacao son frescas y tienen un sabor dulce a limón.

Cocoa Fruit

The seed pods of the fresh cacao fruit are collected, fermented, then sun dried and roasted to create cocoa, the base ingredient in all chocolate. In ancient times the cacao seed were used as money. The white pulp is only available when the cacao pods are fresh and has a sweet lemony taste.

A Special Thank-You to Casa Karma

The Vallarta Botanical Garden would like to recognize Gholi and Georgia Dareshori of Casa Karma for recently upgrading their Garden membership to the Guardian Level. Increased support from our members is always so encouraging to our team and absolutely necessary for us to continue advancing our mission and sustaining the improvements necessary to evolve the Garden to exceed the expectations of our visitors from throughout the world.

Casa Karma is a delightful boutique hotel and wonderful event venue along Puerto Vallarta’s Costa Sur (South Coast) within easy access of both Old Town PV and the Vallarta Botanical Garden. It has our highest of recommendations!

Mexican Bird of the Month
Euphonia elegantissima – Elegant Euphonia

Article and photos by Greg R. Homel

www.birdinginpuertovallarta.com

birdingadventures@mac.com

The often colorful and always interesting euphonias form a subcategory of canopy-dwelling songbirds that for a long time were thought to be specialized, small tanagers. Today they are recognized as being more closely allied to finches and Hawaiian Honeycreepers with a few caveats, such as a diet consisting primarily of parasitic fruit and, in the case of the Elegant Euphonia, living in high to very high elevations.

Whether referred to by their current name, or their more descriptive older name—Blue-hooded Euphonia—this mountain dweller is not very well known to most Vallarta birders because they spend the majority of their time in the canopy of high altitude forests dominated by pines, oaks and even firs, especially those adorned with fruiting mistletoe. Rarely descending to lower elevations, this species of euphonia plays an important ecological role as a distributor of mistletoe, which hitches a ride in its gut, only to be deposited on trees far and wide in the form of sticky droppings.

Males (shown) are more colorful than their greenish female counterparts, though both show the telltale blue hooded effect on their head. On occasion, this species might reach the Vallarta Botanic Garden where its un-birdlike, bubbly vocals give its presence away to lucky birders who encounter it. For those who are willing to travel a little further in search of this species, the forests around San Sebastián del Oeste and Talpa de Allende would be excellent destinations of the region to begin.

Become a Garden “GEM” by Giving Every Month

Dividing your contributions to the Vallarta Botanical Garden into monthly payments can help you better budget your annual giving while providing us with a dependable monthly income to carry the Garden through the slower times of the year. Learn more about this valuable opportunity by visiting the new Give Every Month “GEM” page on the Garden’s website, www.vbgardens.org and begin this kind of contribution today.

Commemorative Cantera Benches

Would you like to honor or memorialize someone with a permanent cantera bench at the Vallarta Botanical Garden? Benches are finished with beautiful hand-painted ceramic tiles. We can help you create a custom design with text and images of your choice. Prices are $7,000 USD for a Banca Real (Regal Bench) and $5,000 USD for a Banca Distintiva (Distinctive Bench). Dividing this amount into payments over the course of three years results in a commitment of only $194 or $139 USD per month. These gifts, along with other honorary/memorial gifts such as individual tiles and permanent memorial stones in the Garden of Memories, qualify for tax-deductible contributions in Mexico, the US, and Canada. For more information, please visit our website or call 322 223 6182 and ask to speak to the Garden’s Membership Coordinator, Michaela Flores.

Your Legacy Lives on at the VBG

Including the Vallarta Botanical Garden in your wills, trusts, and estate planning is an investment in the long-term viability of this important natural sanctuary for Puerto Vallarta and the exquisite flora of Mexico and world tropics. A member of the Garden’s Legacy Committee would be happy to talk to you about the best options for optimizing your philanthropic potential and further blessing a community. Please write to info@vbgardens.org.
Mexican Orchid of the Month

Lycaste consobrina – The Yellow Orchid

Lycaste consobrina is naturally distributed throughout the tropical forests of Puebla, Veracruz, Oaxaca, Chiapas and Guatemala. It is a medium-sized plant, growing as an epiphyte (upon trees) or lithophyte (upon rocks). Its pseudobulbs are quite striking—large, ovoid, wrinkled longitudinally, and when they lose their leaves (usually in the winter) small crowning thorns are revealed. Its leaves are long, thin, arched and pleated longitudinally. The species is very similar to Lycaste aromatica with the primary distinguishing difference being their fragrances. While L. aromatica smells like cinnamon, L. consobrina has a citrus-like aroma—and many visitors say it reminds them of an orange scent. Its flowers are first seen in the spring, with several distinct individual inflorescences emerging from vigorous pseudobulbs. These flowers are so intensely yellow that the plant is often simply called “orquídea amarilla” (yellow orchid). Come find this flower at the Garden today and take in its delightful aroma for yourself.

Education and Volunteer Report
By Centeotl Aragón, Vallarta Botanical Garden

This month we received a group of environmental engineering students from the Instituto Tecnológico de Bahía de Banderas accompanied by their professor, Adrián Maldonado Gasca. They showed great interest during their stay during which they were able to reinforce their knowledge on the subject of ecosystems. We were also visited by students from the Higher Technological Institute of Puerto Vallarta, a group led by Juana Tapia Ruelas, and students from the Universidad de la Vera-Cruz.

From the Membership Desk

What an exciting month for the Vallarta Botanical Garden! Our season of strong visitation has not tapered off and April brought a strong flow of smiling faces out to celebrate nature with us. The talk of the Garden this past month has certainly been USA Today’s contest for the Top 10 Botanical Gardens in North America. Rarely does a Mexican garden even make the initial list of 20 nominees, but this year we have climbed to the number 4 spot thanks to everyone’s support. ¡Muchas gracias!

Members: Please always wear your membership card while visiting the Garden. This helps our staff and volunteers recognize you as members and offer valuable discounts on your Garden purchases and other important benefits.

Can you find your name on our Wall of Patrons?

If you’re not yet “on the wall” we invite you to join the family that preserves the Garden forever!
