

We are creating a unique forest reserve by purchasing woodlands adjacent to the gardens

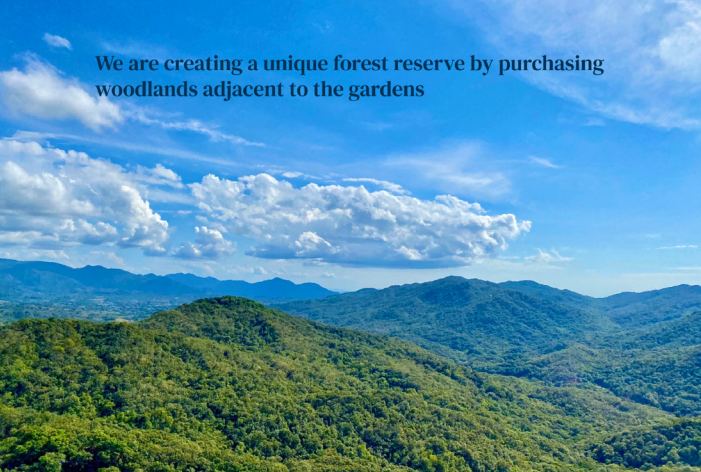

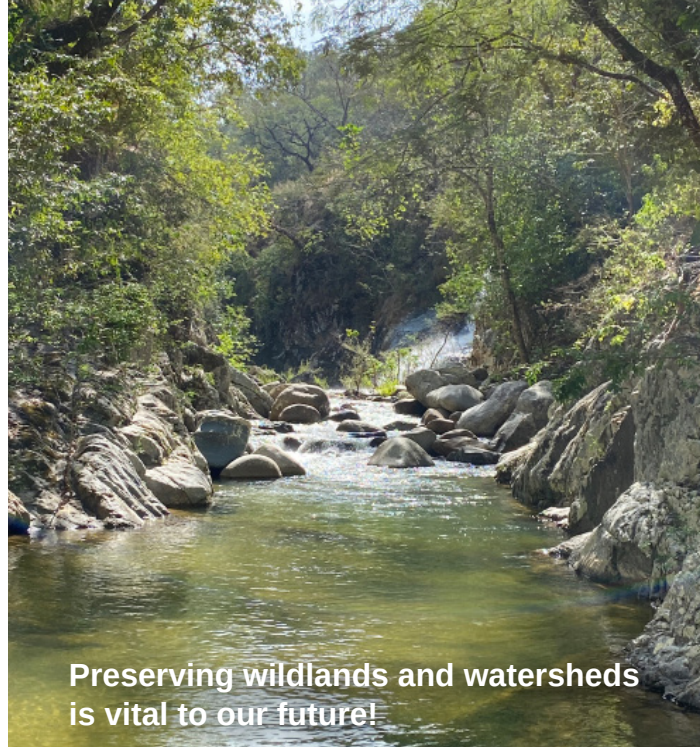

Photo: RickyZen©InLivingFocus

Conservation in Action Explained

The Vallarta Botanical Garden is located in one of the last untouched wilderness areas and forested lands of unique ecosystems in Mexico. Without bringing these wildlands under protection, we risk losing them forever. With deforestation a growing threat each day, the situation requires urgent action from all of us. Won't you please consider donating any amount to help us purchase and preserve these lands in perpetuity? Private funds are being sought to acquire these remaining tracts and bring them under official protection. There are currently no other land conservation projects in our area. Please join us to preserve the remaining wild regions of Mexico while there is still time. No one is coming to save these fragile ecosystems, yet others are eager to exploit them. We must act today!

Preserving wildlands and watersheds is vital to our future!

Guacamaya (Ara militaris)

Ocelote (Leopardus pardalis)

Venado cola blanca (Odocoileus virginianus)

Learn more about this transformative new project!
We would enjoy speaking with you.
Please contact us today:

In Mexico dial: 322 223 6182
Please contact Jesus Reyes:
directorgeneral@vbgardens.org
Executive Director, Vallarta Botanical Garden
From the US or Canada dial:
00 52 322 688 6206
Carretera Puerto Vallarta a Barra de Navidad km 24. Las Juntas y los Veranos
Cabo Corrientes, Jalisco. CP. 48425
www.vbgardens.org
Write us on our facebook page

Conservation in Action! 2022

Because ensuring a secure place in the future for flora and fauna of Mexico must start with action today.

Mexico's flora and fauna is in our hands!

Please Participate! Vallarta Botanical Garden Presents: Conservation in Action!

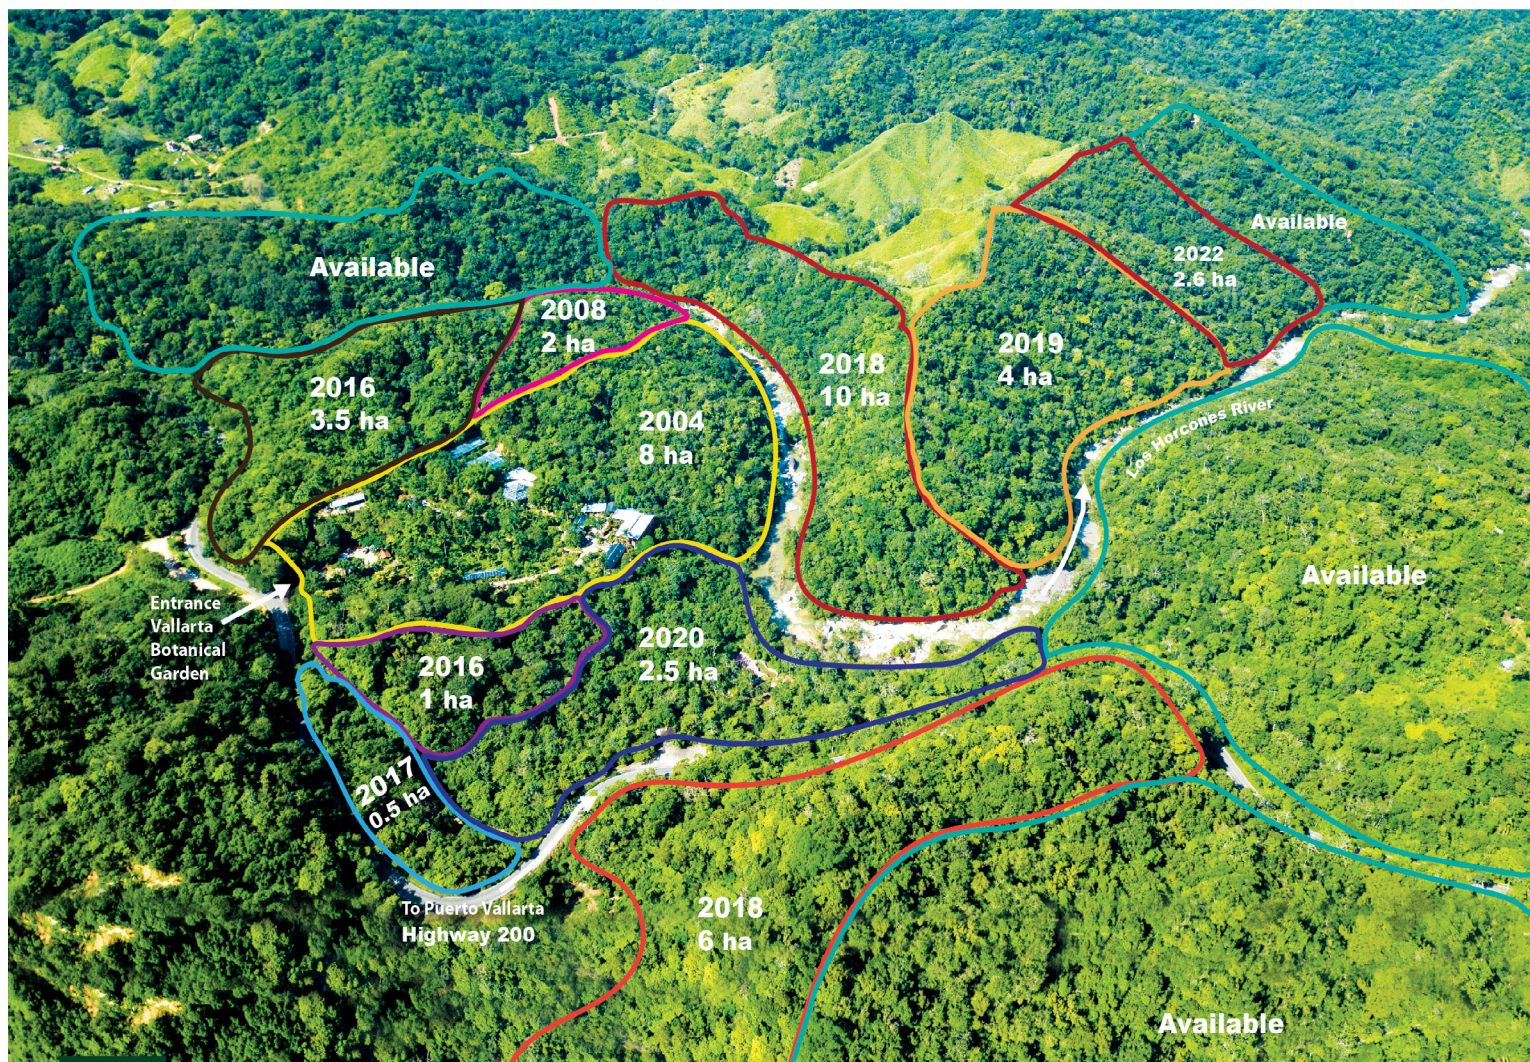

We invite you to contribute to this conservation initiative by the Vallarta Botanical Garden.

We are creating a Forest Preserve to protect habitats for native animals and to help fight climate change.

The Garden's staff and Board of Directors are working to ensure that land purchased through this campaign will be maintained, not as an expansion of the VBG, but as a preserve into perpetuity.

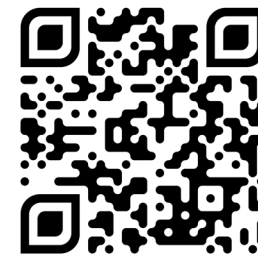

The wild areas and forests around Puerto Vallarta are some of Mexico's last remaining natural refuges for many native species of plants and animals, including orchids, endangered birds, jaguars and river otters, among others!

The Vallarta Botanical Garden is uniquely positioned and has been conserving wildlife habitats since 2004.

Again, we are acquiring additional properties to expand our globally important wildlife preserve. Would you please help us protect against deforestation? Governments are not acting to save these wild areas, and it's up to the private sector to come together as never before, uniting for this worthy cause! Land Conservation projects are happening right now worldwide; let's work to bring Mexico to the forefront of land conservation.

The only purpose for this land is conservation. Let's conserve together!
Donations over $500 USD include a one-year Membership to the Vallarta Botanical Gardens!

PLEASE JOIN US
Scan the QR code
with your device.